A CRYING SHAME

LONDON DESERVES BETTER THAN THIS

August 2007 - City Hall London

London Mayor (Red) Ken Livingstone breaks down in tears as he 'apologises' on behalf of London for its past role in the Slave Trade. Livingstone twice interrupted his speech to openly weep and to be comforted by US Black Civil Rights leader Rev. Jessie Jackson. The citizens of London deserve better leadership than this kind of pathetic, left-wing, white-guilt merchant.

Britain has gone through a number of changes since the last issue of Broadsword; Tony Blair is no longer Prime Minister, but has gone on to lend his political 'expertise' to the Middle East peace process (Israel can rest easy that they have a solid friend looking after their interests).

Now Britain has a new Prime Minister in the shape of the dour Stalinist career politician Gordon Brown, little change in the overall ideology at the head of New Labour except that Brown is less smarmy and much more of a control freak than Blair.

Interesting to note that Brown's closest advisor, Ed Balls, now a Cabinet Minister, attended the Bilderberg Group conference in Canada when he was Economic Secretary to the Treasury. Equally interesting is that the cost of Mr Balls trip was paid for by the British tax-payer, a mere £5,000 to take part in the Bilderberg gathering.

On other fronts, Britain has experienced yet another episode of home grown jihadist terrorism with the attempted bombings in London and the attack on Glasgow airport. The fabric of multi-racial Britain is stretching ever thinner and must soon surely break.

After the floods of this summer came the return of Foot and Mouth disease to threaten Britain's farmers, this time courtesy of a research laboratory used by the ill-managed government department Defra.

The need for a National Socialist alternative grows daily.

WE MUST APPEAL TO YOUTH!

Teenage Activists Were Once the Spearhead of BM Street Campaigns - How Do We Re-Generate That Level of Activism in Today's British Youth?

In a recent conversation with a British Movement activist the question of how best to interest young people and recruit a new generation of youth into the National Socialist cause was debated at some length. Many of British Movement's current supporter network originally joined BM as teenagers. Today those young men and women have grown up and have families, bringing their children up to be young National Socialists, but what of the generation in between? How can we appeal to 21st Century British youth and build a strong nationwide following amongst the teenagers of modern Britain?

The BM activist who raised the question also pointed out that the youngsters of today have never known anything but the 'diversity' and multi-racial media that works to brainwash them into accepting the non-Aryan minorities who dominate our capital city and many of our larger towns and cities. Not only that, but this is the electronic generation who have been swamped by the Internet, Play-Stations, iPods, and the ever expanding range of internationalist, 'World-Village' attitudes and entertainments. All of the above removes them from their roots and their traditions, cons them into accepting multi-culturalism and takes them further and further from the roots of their folk. The British youth of today are exposed to the worst elements of multi-racial Britain, but how many of them realise that there is an alternative?

The task we must take on is to appeal to this generation of young White British and bring them under the Sunwheel banner of National Socialism - they are our future, they are our future activists and future leaders.

The challenge to all our organisers and activists out there is to create the situations and the strategies that will energise White British youngsters into taking an active role in fighting the tidal wave of propaganda and brainwashing from the Government and the education system. The Establishment believes that if it can direct and control the way young people think and act, then it can 'eradicate racism' by breaking their sense of national identity and racial awareness and substituting those positive ideas with the leftist corrupting influences that accept minorities and 'racial and cultural diversity'. We must win this fight and appeal to youth.

We Will Have Our Country Back!

MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS

Broadsword takes a look at the stories and incidents drawn from across Britain that best illustrate the depths into which our country has sunk as politicians, Police and the Race Relations industry impose political correctness and racial equality on the White British majority population.

An Everyday Story Of Multi-Cultural Diversity In The Community

A Broadsword reader writes from Southampton.....

"Now a little immigrant tale from down here, in a rather upper crust avenue a few streets away. An upstairs flat was let to a Chinese 'gentleman' who owns a local restaurant. Anyway, it seems that he used the rented property to house his kitchen staff; he slept eight people in the loft, their hours were 8am to 4pm in the house then back to work; the main bedroom was basically a 'Chinese knocking-shop' where other Chinese businessmen brought their 'ladies' in the afternoons; the lounge looking out onto the balcony was used for regular Mah Jong games and food was prepared in the kitchen for the restaurant. All this was done with no undue noise, very polite, smiling Chinese.

Unfortunately for them the owner of the property turned up one afternoon and found all the above ticking over, plus the locks had been changed. So the owner made a few local enquiries and then the st hit the fan!

The Police and Immigration Service arrived, there were a number of illegals living there, even some of the 'legal immigrants' were working without permits. The owner of the property has said that sorting things out will take forever. The entire property, every room, the loft included has been cleaned out and totally re-decorated because of it being impregnated by the smell of their cooking and domestic habits, all the flat's furniture has been taken out and burned for the same reason."

Another example of cultural enrichment ?

More Tax-Payers Money Spent on Defending Multi-Culturalism Peterborough

Peterborough Council is spending £20,000 from its Youth Services budget on so-called 'Unity' projects; such as 'Unity Football Club', the 'Unity Peacemakers' and 'Unity Youth Crew'.

All these groups are funded to help build 'community harmony' and to protect 'diversity' and to defuse the kind of inter racial clashes seen in Peterborough over recent years. There has been a rapid influx of asylum-seekers and refugees into Peterborough in the last decade with frequent clashes between competing ethnic and religious groups.

Police Superintendent Paul Phillipson spoke in defence of the spending, "Tensions are often high within our rapidly-growing, diverse youth and can spill into violence all too quickly"

MULTI CULTURALISM IS NOT WORKING
British Movement totally rejects the concept of a multi-racial Britain.

NOTHING TO FEAR

'Misunderstood' Sharia Court appears in Dewsbury as top Muslims play down influence

By Martin Shaw

SHARIA, the Islamic religious law, is not a threat to the British legal system, according to a leading Muslim scholar. He says that the law is not a threat to the British legal system, according to a leading Muslim scholar. He says that the law is not a threat to the British legal system, according to a leading Muslim scholar.

When people talk about Sharia, are they thinking of something that is being imposed on them? Or are they thinking of something that is being imposed on them? Or are they thinking of something that is being imposed on them?

The fact that Muslim women are still systematically killed by their husbands, fathers and brothers under their sacred code of honour is a matter of public record, however. We just don't know yet - if Sharia courts like the one at the White Hart ever intend to sanction them.

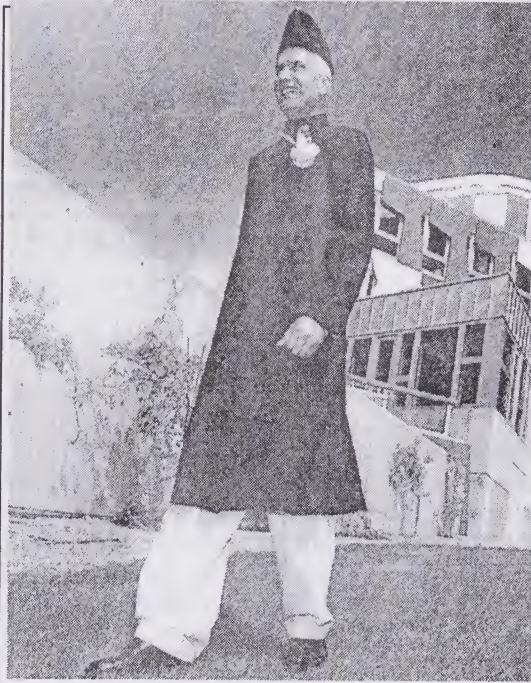

DANNY HAS HIS SAY - p8

Here is further proof that established immigrant communities are continuing to develop completely separate self-sustaining 'colonies' within our country. In Dewsbury the so-called 'Islamic Research Institute of Great Britain' holds Sharia Courts on a twice monthly basis. The Institutes leader Sheikh Yaquub Munshi has previously declared that introducing Sharia law into the UK has been his goal since moving into Britain in the 1960's.

MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS

More Multi-Racial Madness Stories Taken From Both Local and the National Press Which Betray the Level of Insanity Behind the Pursuit of the Failed Concept of Multi-Culturalism.

How often have we said that the SNP, the Scottish Nationalists, are Marxist phonies? Well their first Asian MP is Bashir Ahmad, a Pakistani born resident of Glasgow and an SNP Member of the Scottish Parliament

This is an MSP for the SNP the Scottish National Party. His name is Bashir Ahmad, he gave his oath of allegiance to the Scottish Parliament in Urdu, his native tongue and wore his traditional Pakistani costume to the ceremony.

MORE MADNESS AS GOVERNMENT 'THINK TANK' SUGGESTS AN AMNESTY FOR ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS.

In a moment of real multi-racial madness a group of MP's, Trade Union leaders and other left-wing 'opinion-shapers' including Leftist singer Billy Bragg, have actually suggested that an amnesty be granted for illegal immigrants and also that the same illegal immigrants be automatically granted full British citizenship in the "Strangers Into Citizens" campaign.

The Marxist nature of Trade Union involvement hides behind the campaign slogan of 'A Worker is a Worker', and calls for full employment rights for all illegally employed immigrants, refugees and asylum seekers. This ignores the fact that most so-called 'refugees' and 'asylum seekers' are in fact economic migrants who enter the UK by whatever means available to earn money either legally or otherwise and establish a life in Britain so as to support their extended families back in the Third World. The suggestion that these people be granted an amnesty ignores the fact that these illegal immigrants are just that ILLEGAL, they have broken the law in order to enter the UK, they have lied, cheated and bribed their way across the world to get here, they deliberately use false documents or destroy their real passports to hide their country of origins and foil deportation. They usually come here from a culture of corrupt officials and bribery, their entire existence in Britain is built on a lie.

Now the people who have suggested an amnesty would have us believe that these people will suddenly become model citizens. An amnesty will only achieve one thing, it will establish a rule that if you enter Britain illegally, eventually the rules will be scrapped in your favour.

THE PRODUCT OF A MULTI-RACIAL SOCIETY

A recent Government announcement has been the suggestion that the national multi-million bill for translating documents into foreign languages so that immigrants can understand everything from applying for asylum to finding an NHS dentist, can be reduced by insisting that immigrants actually learn to speak English and that services cut the translating of documents to a minimum.

Not surprisingly this move has been met with furious outrage by immigrant welfare organisations and fellow travellers. The attitude of these people to such changes was best summed up on a BBC Radio 2 phone-in debate where a 'representative' of an immigrant/refugee welfare organisation based in a Scottish city ranted at the Government spokes-woman about 'cuts in funding for free English classes' which apparently new arrivals feel that they are entitled to. The immigrant welfare representative, herself Asian, but born in the UK eventually launched into a screeching tirade against the Government speaker, howling on air that "Britain is a multiracial society now...GET USED TO IT!"

It seems that the second and third generation immigrants are abandoning all pretences of civility towards the host community now and are openly demanding that Britain changes to suit THEM.

Surviving Order activist and creator of the motto, "14 Words" David Lane has died aged 69 years in prison in the USA. David Lane died on May 28th in the Federal Correctional Complex, Terre Haute, Indiana, he was serving an incredible 190 year life sentence for his part in activities of The Order.

David Lane had spent most of his racial activist years in various factions of the Ku Klux Klan and later joined up with the Aryan Nations organisation, taking part in their gatherings at Hayden Lake in Idaho.

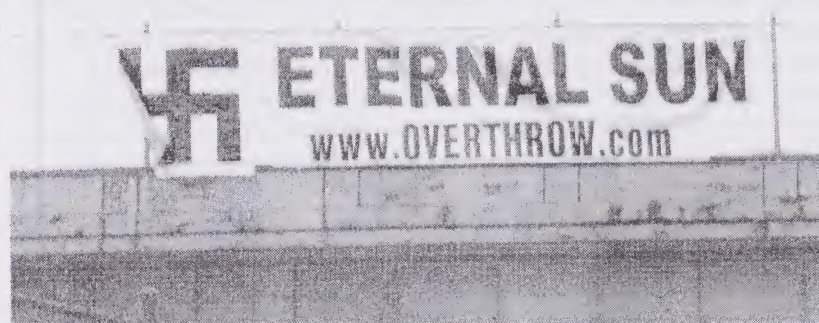

It was through Aryan Nations that David Lane met White resistance activist Bob Mathews and was a founding member of the so-called 'Silent Brotherhood' - later known as The Order.

David Lane never gave up the struggle:

He continued to write radical political tracts and articles after he was imprisoned. He corresponded with a variety of individuals worldwide as well as contributing his ideas to the "14 Word Press" including the collection of his ideas in the book "Deceived, Damned and Defiant".

THE PROPAGANDA WAR

Taking The British Movement Message Out Onto The Streets.

In the late 1970's and early 1980's British Movement was able to build its national presence and political profile through public demonstrations and marches through city and town centres.

To build support for this open political campaigning, BM activists would carry out large scale poster and sticker activities together with mass leafleting of housing estates and paper sales outside football grounds on Saturday afternoons. This was effective campaigning and despite the relatively crude quality of the propaganda materials, British Movement was able to build a sizeable activist base across the country, particularly amongst White working class youth.

Unfortunately today, most of these methods of campaigning are no longer viable. Although the production quality of BM propaganda materials has greatly improved, the methods of spreading BM propaganda have had to change. Marches and demonstrations are no longer an option, modern Police tactics and surveillance prevent mass public expressions of overtly National Socialist or racist sentiments. Town centre CCTV cameras monitor every street and effectively rule out fly-postering and mass sticker 'blitzes'.

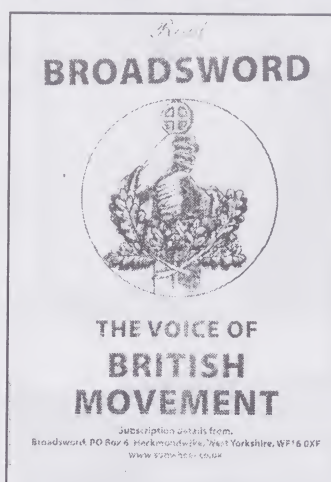

Local authorities and major companies will now prosecute sticker and poster teams, local councils remove 'non-politically correct' posters and slogans within 24 hours. So we must now develop new strategies and tactics for taking out our message and building up grass roots support for British Movement and the creation of mass support for National Socialism not just amongst young working class people, but across all ages and classes of White British people.

WHAT WE ARE FIGHTING FOR

British Movement activists are often asked, "I know what you are fighting against, but what are you fighting for?"

What British Movement is fighting for is the total change of modern British society. British Movement is fighting to preserve all the traditional aspects of our country; our heritage, White British culture, our history and customs, the traditional languages, dialects and diversity of Britain's shires, counties, regions, provinces and principalities.

British Movement is fighting to create a new political force in British politics, a grass roots National Socialist movement which totally rejects the multi-racial, consumerist society currently occupying Britain. British Movement fights to change the mind-set of the White British population before it is too late to save our race and nation.

British Movement fights to change the 'sleep-walking' psychology of the 21st Century British people, to turn the British away from the glossy, celebrity obsessed, consumerist values of the global capitalist market back into a Nation of people who have a sense of national and racial pride, who value their country and heritage before personal material or financial gain. British Movement fights to re-awaken commitment to a political ideology built on Blood and Soil, Race and Nation, Folk and Family.

British Movement is fighting to change the attitudes and opinions of the British people, to counter over 50 years of liberal and socialist propaganda, indoctrination and opinion shaping. British Movement is fighting to turn Britain's 'clock' back to a time before mass non-white immigration into Britain, to a time when the British not only had a pride in their history and heritage, but were taught their history and heritage as school children.

British Movement is fighting to restore the moral senses of the British people, to overturn the current obsession with the promotion of homosexual equality; the corruption and degredation that illegal, recreational drug use has brought to Britain's streets; the casual acceptance of smoking 'dope' and snorting cocaine; the collapse of public discipline and respect; where a generation of urban youngsters live like feral animals; the vandalism, petty crime and anti-social attitudes.

British Movement is fighting to build a disciplined ideological movement which can challenge the moral degeneracy and provide an Aryan alternative to the ghetto - inspired, graffiti splattered, multi-cultural atmosphere that the present generation are being raised in.

British Movement is fighting for a complete change to Britain's economic structure and banking system, to radically change the way the country raises taxes at both a national level and a local level. To change the way that banks, building societies and loan companies do business, to break the current cycle of personal debt that stalks Britain like a plague, to overthrow the so-called 'credit-card' culture that has overtaken whole generations of British adults. The foundations of monopoly capitalism are rooted in the banking system and the control of both national and international finance.

Only National Socialism can break that stranglehold and shake the British out of their blind faith in a financial system that seeks to exploit their dreams and enslave them in permanent debt. We Will Have Our Country Back !

MIXED RACE THE THREAT IS REAL

In Issue 32 of Broadsword an article entitled "Mixed Race- the UK's growing mixed race population is the greatest threat to Britain's racial integrity" spelled out the reality of miscegenation (race-mixing) to Britain's gene-pool.

So consider this statement from pop entertainer Mylene Klass, who is mixed race, "There is a generation of mixed boys and girls like me; my kids are going to be quarter-Fillipino, a quarter- Austrian, a quarter-Irish. The mixed races shall inherit the Earth, were gonna fix it..."

National Socialism is the guardian of Britain's traditional moral standards. British Movement calls for a national crusade against moral degeneracy.

MORE BOMBS IN LONDON

Once the 'home-grown' Islamic terrorists are demonstrating how much cultural diversity has enriched British culture by planting car bombs in the West End.

It seems that this time the attacks were planned and executed by assorted 'immigrant' doctors and medical students, which seems to flatten the previous liberal myth that the 'home-grown' jihadists are all disconnected, disadvantaged young men of British-born Asian origins.

When a senior Metropolitan police anti-terrorism officer was asked why the Met were not employing the kind of road block and questioning tactics used so effectively in central Belfast against IRA car bombers in the 1970's and 1980's, he replied that it was impossible to block off central London and question every driver because unlike Belfast, London was much bigger and busier, but most importantly there are "Over 300 different languages spoken inside the M25 corridor" which would prevent every driver into central London being properly questioned, because the Met don't have enough foreign language specialists or interpreters.

As I have said many times before - If these people hadn't been allowed to settle here, the problems wouldn't exist.

THE GREAT CHINESE TAKEAWAY

Exporting British Industries and Jobs - A Reflection on Events by H. M.

They called it 'The Great Drain Robbery' here in Scotland. Some thieving characters went around the streets with a vehicle, stealing cast steel drain-covers and selling them to unscrupulous scrap metal merchants. These dealers broke them up and sold them to China, whose economy is booming, and in need of lots of scrap metal. China is willing to pay premium prices for this scrap. Another saying they have up here is 'The Great Chinese Take-Away'. They are taking away our very livelihood by buying up the factories that employ us and pay us wages. These factories also produce the goods which make our Nation wealthy. The Chinese simply transport the machinery back to China, re-install them in great factory sites in the huge cities they're erecting (they've got some cities with over 1 million population, some have 4-6 million). The cheap non-union labour enables China's communist government to produce at a very low cost. China exports these cheap goods to our Nation to sell in our markets, using the machines they bought in Britain, too! Amazing eh!

Thus, a giant container ship sailed out of China for the container base at Felixstowe. It was sneaked out with 3000x20 feet containers loaded up with these cheap goods produced by China's cheap scab labour force. These goods were sold by the financier class here in Britain to make lots of cash for themselves out of the deal; but what about us British workers? "Searchlight" magazine has a slogan, "A worker is a worker"; but in this case we see Chinese workers doing us British workers out of our livelihood with their cheap, scab labour.

"Searchlight's" scribblers are OK, of course I mean, Gerry Gable lives in a plushy home in the Essex stockbroker's belt. According to 'New Target', this is reckoned to be worth £500,000 and Gable has two cars like John Preston the Labour Party's cabinet minister. Real bourgeois types now-a-days eh? I ask, what have British workers got? Long-term unemployment and poverty, and we don't like it one bit, especially when our governors continue to swamp our National territory with aliens from abroad to beat down our wage rates, and drive us out of jobs.

"Searchlight" calls the new Nationalist Union "Solidarity", a scab Union; but scabs work for lower wages than other workers. It isn't 'Solidarity' who is advocating a low wage policy to beat down our pay rates here in Britain. It's "Searchlight's" left-wing comrades in China who are doing that act of scabbing. They want to see our National territory swamped with cheap labour from abroad, because "a worker is a worker" in their failed crackpot internationalist-globalist world-view.

Well I've got news for them - an acquaintance of mine down in London got the sack from his job, along with four of his work-mates, (all workers, mark you). His former employers took on 5 Kosovans at £50 per week less wages. Look at just some of the factories which have closed down in Britain, and moved to cheap scab-labour economies in Asia. Ravenscraig steelworkers shut down in Motherwell, and its machinery or production was sold to China's communist government. Chinese workers came to Scotland and stripped the factory down. They packed the machinery into containers, and transported it lock, stock and barrel to China. There is was re-assembled in a giant Chinese factory to make cheap steel for sale to the West. Goodyear Tyres was situated in Drumchapel on the western periphery of Glasgow. It closed down and moved to China. You see, left-wing trade unionists had been causing constant industrial strife with strikes. The Company warned the workforce that they would close down; but the left-wing dopes said they are bluffing. In China there are no left-wingers to stir up any industrial strife. In fact, if you strike under a communist government, they call it counter-revolutionary. We know what the communist Chinese Red Army did to strikers protesting on the giant Tian-an-men Square in Peking. They shot them down and even ran over them with tanks. Masses were arrested and beaten up, then sent to the Chinese communist gulags, as cheaper than cheap labour; but that's what communists always do to us workers when they get power over us. Their history is steeped in the blood of millions upon millions of workers, yet these phoney tell us 'a worker is a worker'.

Caterpillar Tractor on the eastern periphery of Glasgow closed down and moved to China.. Needless to say the work-force in these factories all went into long-term unemployment and poverty as a consequence of the 'Great Chinese Take-Away' policy line. I know about it, I was unemployed for 20 years, but the geeks in the middle-class fat-cats in the trade unions are OK. They are not unemployed and poverty-stricken for years. Yet these evil callous men shriek their hatespeak at us. Why? Because we protest at our poverty, and reject their failed internationalist-globalist system which has brought us down. We want our industries protected so as to ensure our jobs and livelihood. We think such a situation can only brought about by Nationalism. They realise that such an economic system would destroy their power over us and their power to organise us means more to them than our joblessness and poverty.

China is so vast by comparison with Britain that it poses a distinct threat to all our livelihoods. What is more, the Chinese seem to be justifying their scabbing tactics used against us by wailing away about the opium wars of 150 years ago. Yet it wasn't us White workers who sent opium out to China, so why should they want revenge on us? In my opinion its evil anti-White racism we are seeing rising up in China, S.E. Asia, India etc. But in the jaundiced vision of the left, it's only Whites who can be racists. Talk about self-hate? Anyway, no Brits stuffed opium up the noses of Chinese people. They paid cash for it, and smoked it freely in their opium dens. Does that give them the right to rave on about how us Brits owe them for the opium wars, and to gloat over our impoverishment as a just revenge on us? The guilt-ridden self-hating middle-class left might say so; but we workers don't!

Down in Northampton and Leicester, Clark's Footwear firm closed down, and re-opened in Vietnam. In Britain, workers were being paid about £300 per week with overtime and bonuses. The communist government of Vietnam pay their workers £30 per week. The left-wing union, Nalco-Unison, says nothing. Unison's middle-class fat-cat lefties gave "Searchlight" some £20,000 as a donation, out of their members' funds. Why? It was to run a campaign of hate against us the British workers who were protesting about our unemployment and poverty. Any workers who support the left are not wise. The left are not the friends of the British unemployed working man. They have betrayed us in the cause of internationalism-globalism: - "a worker is a worker" they shout. WHAT A LOAD OF RUBBISH!

OBITUARY

Florentine Rost van Tonningen

Broadsword pays tribute to one of Europe's most determined post -1945 defenders of National Socialism.

Sadly Frw. van Tonnigen passed away in March 2007 living in exile in Flanders, her age finally put an end to her tireless campaign for truth and justice for those who fought and died for the National Socialist cause.

Born in Amsterdam 14th November 1914

Died 24th March 2007.

Florentine Sophie Rost van Tonnigen-Heubel

"Und Ihr Habt Doch Gesiegt!"

Florentine Rost van Tonningen died in Waasmunster, Belgium on March 24th 2007, living as an exile from her native Holland, driven out of her homeland by the political forces that had persecuted her since 1945.

During the 1930's Florrie had been actively involved in the Dutch National Socialist movement, initially working with the Jeugdstorm youth organisation before joining Anton Mussert's NSB.

In 1940 she married Dr. Meinoud Marinus Rost van Tonningen, a member of the Dutch parliament who would become President of the Dutch National Bank, and Finance Minister in the wartime Government. Florrie became well acquainted with leading figures in the Third Reich, when her husband became an SS officer, she herself became totally committed to the Blood and Soil ideology of the SS, (in the 1970's she was interviewed by British television on these aspects of her life for the ITV series 'The World At War' and in the 1990's by Channel 4 for a programme on the SS and the Ahnenerbe.)

In 1945 she faced tragedy after tragedy, her brother Wim was killed fighting on the Rhine, he was a volunteer officer in a Dutch Waffen SS unit. In May 1945, the Third Reich collapsed and Florrie found herself fleeing the 'liberation' of the Netherlands, hiding out in Germany and then the Dutch/German border area. Her husband was captured by Canadian units of the Allied forces, who handed him over to the Dutch 'Forces of the Interior' the so-called Resistance army, Dr van Tonningen did not survive long, being brutally killed in Scheveningen prison, his death was claimed to have been a 'suicide' even though he had been visibly beaten to death.

Convicted of the crime of 'collaboration' Florrie spent years fighting her oppressors in the Dutch political establishment, initially to regain her children and later to recover her property and even her wedding ring which was 'trophyed' by a Canadian soldier after her capture.

Persecuted and prosecuted by the Dutch authorities for her unrepentant National Socialist political activities, Florrie attended and spoke at racial nationalist meetings across Europe and ran her own organisation, Consortium "De Levensboom" with its regular newsletter, as well as campaigning to get justice for her late husband.

To Have or to BE ?

Reprinted from a publication by the NEW ORDER. Milwaukee. USA.

The essence of National Socialism is racial idealism. What is such idealism based upon? In the following commentary, appearing in the Second Quarter 2004 issue of the NS Bulletin, NEW ORDER Commander Matt Koehl offers an explanation which brings moral clarity to the issue, as he challenged the reader to personal reflection and commitment to a Cause greater than that of one's own petty existence.

The two most common verbs are "to have" and "to be". No one knows this better than those struggling with the irregular grammar of a foreign language. It is these two words which are fundamental to all human conception and understanding.

How one relates to these two verbs defines one's personal identity. Indeed, how society as a whole relates to these primal units of speech defines its tone and character.

One of these words provides the basis for materialism, the other for that of idealism. Those societies based on having represent one kind of world, while those based on being represent an entirely different order. In a healthy, idealistic society - where personal honour, integrity and heroism are held as highest values - more important than what one has is what one is. And these values encompass a natural relationship to one's own kind.

By contrast, in a diseased, materialistic society - where such values are lost - most people opt for the "have". Possessing no honour or integrity, their image of themselves is based upon what material possessions they have or do not have. Indeed, their entire existence is defined by those possessions or lack thereof. In other words, their self-identity proceeds from that which lies outside of themselves, rather than that which comes from within.

In the absence of "to be"; such creatures act on the basis of another verb, namely: to seem. "Schein statt Sein", as the German paraphrase goes. Instead of the real, they opt for mere appearance. A world of cant and make-believe serves as a proxy for an actual one. The culmination of this "have" outlook is manifested most strikingly in contemporary society, which is dominated by crass consumerism and materialism, rather than by genuine idealism based on blood and honour. Never-ending acquisition is its theme, and money is the measure of all things. Unfortunately, most people have bought into this world of endless consumption, this world of mammon. Seduced by commercial advertising and mass marketing, they have been conditioned to respond like Pavlov's dogs, wagging their tails and salivating at all the many things they have been trained to want. Their values are to be found in mindless consumption, and their spiritual centre- their mecca, as it were - is the shopping mall. No longer are they happy with what they already have. Instead, they seek satisfaction in the acquisition of ever more THINGS - more trinkets, more toys, more gadgets and gizmos of an ephemeral throw-away society. More overpriced toys with which to spoil the kiddies, more cool fashions and video-games for overindulged teenagers, bigger TV screens and all the latest interactive electronic goodies for a me/now generation of adults - all in the belief that happiness is to be found in the insatiable quest for material things. Indeed, as it is the sole thing sustaining the Western bubble economy, some have even gone so far as to equate this compulsive urge to splurge with patriotism!

Perhaps nowhere is this latter-day lust for the things of this world better reflected than in the comparative sizes of family homes after World War II and those today. A half a century ago, with far more children, most people were satisfied with homes which were modest and unpretentious. By contrast, today's yuppie baby-boomers - with far fewer or no children - require conspicuous out-sized Mc Mansions to announce their arrival in the world. And down the road, when it comes to leaving a legacy to their children - if they have any - all they can think of is bequeathing a material estate, rather than a much more precious one of good blood and good upbringing. A white mother swoons at the prospect of her daughter's engagement to some overpaid black sports "hero" on steroids. A white teenage thinks ex-inner-city rappers and their big bucks are 'cool', and he seeks to emulate his African role models. A yuppie, indoctrinated with the nutty notion that all primates are created equal, is prepared to welcome blacks into his all-white neighbourhood with the non sequitur than the negroidal newcomers "make more money than most whites".

In each instance the underlying criterion is not what one happens to be, but rather what one has - as though the size of one's wallet or bank account are an accurate measure of human quality. The deleterious effect of the "have" mentality can be seen in various ways. One need only look at the environment to see Nature's warning signs. Polluted air, polluted soil, polluted streams and oceans, the destruction of forests, resource depletion, climate alteration, genetic contamination, the wholesale disappearance of species - these are the results of a world opting for global capitalism and a gluttonous Western "way of life". Above all the noise and clamour of a crass consumer culture, voices are sometimes raised, suggesting that there might come a time when the ballooning bill will have to be paid. But not to worry. Your credit is good in this booming, buy-now-pay-later, bubble society - this flagwaving wonderland with the largest accumulation of debt in the history of the world. Is this living, or what?

With a mass mindset firmly fixed on material acquisition, the enthronement of the Money Power - predicated on concomitant debt and ignorance - is assured.

And so, in the quest for more, more - ever more! - one takes one's place in the great Konsumgesellschaft and its endless rat race. Teenagers graduating from high school with overextended credit cards; young couples, on their way to wedded bliss owing their souls more to the banks and finance companies than to each another; two-job and two-income families, up to their ears in debt and interest payments, struggling to keep their heads above water. These are some of the start-up costs of consumer capitalism.

Is it worth it? Under such a set-up, does one really live - or merely exist?

"GET A LIFE!" We have all heard the expression. It is usually uttered by someone who is himself caught up in a mindless rat race and unable to have a real life of his own. Yes, to "get a life". to live! To BE, in the truest sense of the word - that is something National Socialism commands to everyone who aspires toward Aryan realisation and fulfilment. For without such a life, one does indeed simply exist, physically present but spiritually and morally dead.

Life without a higher purpose is mere existence. As such it has no meaning or value. It is worthless. It is of no consequence. It doesn't count. Today most people exist as mere protoplasmic blobs. Spiritually and actually they are zeroes, nobodies - zilch. They are not true people, but zombies.

These walking dead have but one concern: to "feel good" to "be happy", and go along with the brainless herd. And the path to this nirvana of nothingness is sought in material acquisition. But that is not a purpose - it is simply an excuse for sleepwalking and selfishness. It has no enduring value for the future. Indeed, the aspirations of such sleepwalkers for creature comfort and ego-gratification can be compared to those of a slug or a mosquito - with the exception that the latter are driven by natural, organic needs, rather than unnatural desire.

It is true that we all have certain basic material needs; and there is nothing wrong with trying to meet those needs. But the real question is whether, in meeting and going beyond those needs, we allow material concerns to control our lives and what we are. Unfortunately, the lives of most people are controlled by what they have, rather than what they are. It is this fundamental denial of reality - with an accompanying loss of personal identity - which is the source of spiritual alienation and unhappiness.

So then, shouldn't the focus be reversed? Shouldn't one's REAL being - one's person control what one has or does not have?

Beyond meeting one's basic needs, National Socialism suggests that development and ennoblement of the person is more important than one's material status. Only thus can one attain to that fulfilment, which is not only the premise for true freedom and happiness, but also the basis for all higher culture as the expression of one's identity.

This is not to argue against wealth - even great wealth- per se. It is important, however, to consider how such wealth has been acquired, as well as how it is disposed of - whether it represents an end in itself, or whether it serves a higher purpose.

Here it is worth noting the paradox that during the Great Depression, it was National Socialist Germany alone - based on a non- (Continued on page 18.)

ANGLO-SAXON ENGLAND A Dark Age or A Golden Age?

In the last issue of Broadsword, the Our Ancestors article looked at the coming to Britain of the Germanic tribes who would become the Anglo-Saxons. Too often has the history of Anglo-Saxon England been portrayed as the 'Dark Ages' when in fact it was a golden age, witnessing the birth of a new nation,

The English, the birth of a new language, English, and the beginnings of native recorded history and literature within these shores. There was a great flowering of art and craftsmanship, building on those skills and ideas already existing amongst the British Celts but fused into the styles and crafts of the incoming Germanic tribes, no better examples of this generation of creativity than the finds excavated from the Sutton Hoo boat burial.

The Anglo-Saxons gave impetus to the writing down of the classic tale 'Beowulf' and the setting down of the 'Anglo-Saxon Chronicles', and a series of real life warrior kings best embodied in the dynasties of the 'Wuffingas' and King Offa of Mercia.

500 Years of Anglo-Saxon England

'The Bretwaldas'

Overlords of the Anglo-Saxon kingdoms. The Sutton Hoo burial in Suffolk excavated originally by archeologists in 1939 was a boat burial of an Anglo Saxon High King, a Bretwalda, possibly the Bretwalda Raedwald who died around the year 624AD. Raedwald was a King of the East Anglian dynasty of the Wuffa, later called the Wuffingas, which possibly translates as the "Wolf People".

The Bretwaldas were the overlords of the Anglo Saxon kingdoms who ruled over the lesser kings and chieftans of Eastern, Central and Southern England throughout the 500 years of Anglo Saxon domination. There were many great kings who carried the title Bretwalda and these were not just warrior kings but also great patrons of craftsmen and trade. Typical of these high kings was Aelle of Sussex, Caewlin of the West Saxons, Aethelberht of Kent, Raedwald of the East Angles and much later Offa, King of the Mercians. Raedwald was a classic Bretwalda of the Anglo Saxons. His royal hall, the great

Moot Hall of the Wuffingas was at Rendlesham in Suffolk only a few miles away from the burial site at Sutton Hoo. Raedwald was a man of his time, born a pagan he hedged his bets by being baptised a Christian during a visit to Kent, but reverted to pagan worship on his return to East Anglia. Although Christianity gained its permanent foothold in Britain in the Anglo Saxon period, many of the new converts amongst the nobility nowhere being more obvious than Ipswich.

The Wuffingas were a great and influential dynasty which ended in the 10th Century when the old kingdom of the East Angles fell to the Vikings. The last king of the Wuffingas, King Edmund, was a Christian who died at the hands of the Norsemen and was claimed by the early church as a martyr. His royal status and his martyrdom reflected in his burial only paid lip-service to the new faith. It was said that right up to his death in later life, Raedwald maintained a temple at his royal hall with one altar to Christ alongside a separate altar to the old gods.

Whatever faith was claimed for him on his deathbed, it is likely that King Raedwald was the body in the Sutton Hoo boat burial, which was in no way a Christian burial.

Although many historians have depicted Anglo Saxon England as the Dark Ages and allege it was a time of ignorance and barbarism the truth is very different. Trade flourished under the royal patronage of the Anglo Saxon kings, trading ports were established along the Eastern and Southern coasts of England and in the large river estuaries of the South-East. These trading centres were called "wics" in the Anglo Saxon tongue.

London was known as Lundenwic; Hamwih would grow into modern South Hampton; York was known as Eoforwic. The "wic" name lives on in many South-Eastern English place names, even today and reveals their Anglo Saxon heritage, place which still bears his name, the town of Bury St Edmunds.

Not all the great kings, The Bretwaldas, lived in the South East of England. One of the greatest lived in the Midlands in the kingdom of Mercia.

"In modern times in Mercia there ruled a mighty king called Offa, who struck all the kings and regions around him with terror. He it was who ordered the great dyke to be constructed between Wales and Mercia, stretching from sea to sea". (From the writings of Bishop Asser).

In the year 757, Offa succeeded to the throne of Mercia. He took the throne of a great king, King Aethelbald the Bretwalda of all England South of the river Humber. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicles called Aethelbald the "Rex Britanniae" which means King of the British. He had been a powerful warrior king who had begun the work of unifying Anglo-Saxon England, South of the Humber, a task that Offa would work and fight to complete.

THE ANGLO-SAXONS - Part 2

OFFA - King of the British

Offa had his royal hall at Tamworth in the Kingdom of Mercia, but he constantly travelled across his kingdom, holding court in Kent and in London, overseeing the church synods in the Thames Valley. Offa was a warrior king frequently leading campaigns against the Welsh on his western frontier or further north at war with the bretwalda kings of Northumbria.

Offa ruled every aspect of life in his kingdom, directing not only his military campaigns, but handing down law and justice, determining the ideology and policies of the church by instructing and appointing bishops loyal to him.

Every year at an appointed date Offa would receive tribute from his subjects at a ceremony held at one of his halls or hunting lodges. These were ancient rites of Celtic and Anglo-Saxon tradition which would be recognised and honoured by both his British and Anglo-Saxon subjects. The chieftains and tribal leaders would bring gifts of tribute to their king and in return honoured individuals would receive gifts in return. Great kingship in the Anglo-Saxon world was marked by the generosity of a king towards his princes and chieftains, successful and loyal warriors and sub-kings would receive gifts of land, hunting estates, horses, cattle, hunting dogs and hawks as well as the usual rewards of silver and gold.

It was often the case that a king would mark the bravery and skill in war of individual chieftains and warriors with the gift of a special sword; such swords would be highly decorated and be given mystical names to enhance the status of the sword bearer.

Offa himself had been sent a magnificent sword as a gift by the great French Emperor Charlemagne, this sword was called 'Avar' and after Offa's death was passed down the line of West-Saxon princes as a treasured heirloom and symbol of warrior status until the time of the Norman Conquest in 1066.

In Anglo-Saxon Britain the sword was the badge of a warrior and a sword with 'magical' powers and a mystical name featured in many myths and legends which have lasted down the centuries. Such swords gave the king power and skill in battle, Offa was such a king, a great leader, he was a 'heretoga' - a leader of the war host.

In the 780's Offa launched a series of raids into Wales and set about constructing his great defensive dyke along the troubled frontier. This was a work of massive undertaking, requiring tremendous organisation of construction and logistics. Offa's Dyke ran for almost 150 miles, stretching from of engineering work even by modern standards, but this was accomplished without machinery and hand built by a people in the so-called 'Dark Ages'. The Anglo-Saxons were both a skilled and creative people.

Offa died in 795, he was an old man, about 60 years of age, he had ruled his kingdom with an iron grip and left his mark on history. So important was Offa in his time that his name a deeds were recorded in the great Anglo-Saxon work 'Beowulf'

"Best of men the wide world over, Offa was a great warrior who ruled his kingdom wisely and was famous for his victories and his generosity."

It was the prejudice of later historians that would record the centuries of the Anglo-Saxon period as the 'Dark Ages'.

In many ways the Anglo-Saxons followed on from the great traditions of Celtic Britain generating a line of mythical kings and great warriors. So too the skilled craftsmanship and artworks showed that far from being illiterate savages the Anglo-Saxons were a sophisticated people and the builders of a complex society and a social order which would influence the direction of both the English peoples and the British nation for centuries to come.

The Our Ancestors series is not intended to be a definitive history of Britain and the British, such an undertaking would require volumes.

But for those Broadsword readers who are interested in studying the Celtic and Anglo-Saxon periods in greater depth, the BM sales section; SECOND CHANCE Sales offers an interesting range of books on Dark Age subjects, Celtic myths, Anglo-Saxon England and the Vikings.

In the next issue of Broadsword this series of Our Ancestors will continue to examine the history and culture of the Anglo-Saxons.

Our Ancestors will look at the life and legends of other kings such as Alfred the Great, Athelstan and Aethelred the Unready. The coming of the Danes and the great Viking invasions of Britain and the creation of the Danelaw.

The 'Wolf-people' brooch from a decorative purse in the treasure from the Sutton Hoo burial. Made of gold, red garnet and white glass, it is a piece jewellery created by an imaginative and highly skilled craftsman. The high quality workmanship of the jewellery, armour, weapons and ornaments in the Sutton Hoo hoard shows that the Anglo-Saxons were not a primitive tribe of thuggish barbarians, but a highly creative and cultured people. This brooch which depicts a man trapped between two wolves, is thought to be the tribal token of the 'Wuffingas' the 'wolf-people'.

It is a symbol not of a 'Dark Age' but the 'Golden Age' of an Anglo-Saxon warrior elite.

The Ideological Roots of 21st Century National Socialism

The Ideological Roots of Modern National Socialism Are to be Found in the Principles and Theories Laid Down in the Germanic-SS in the 1940's.

The Germanic-SS Developed the Concept of a Pan-European National Socialist Movement Which Embraced All European Nations. Those Ideals Spread Beyond 1945 and Evolved Into the Form of National Socialism Advocated by British Movement Today.

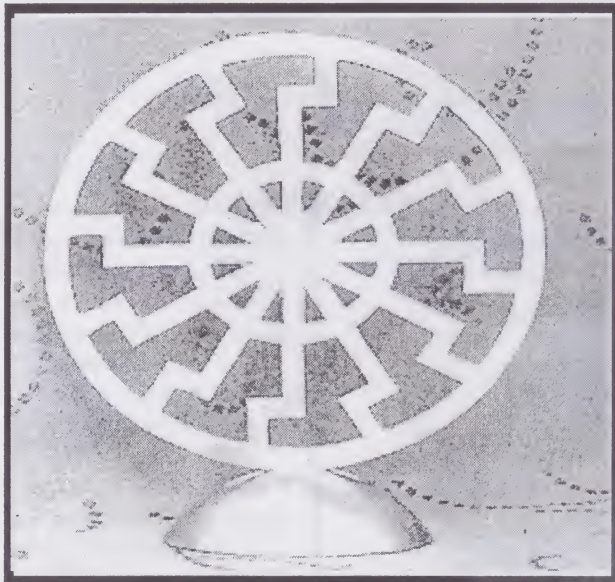

SYMBOLS AND EMBLEMS

It would take many volumes of books to list all the many symbols and emblems used by British and European National Socialist and 'Folkish' movements, their historical significance and their meanings. Suffice to say that emblems and symbols have been an important feature of our Folk and their history right back to the dawn of time. Most of the symbols used by modern NS organisations have their origins in pre-1945 Germany and Western Europe, which in turn had their origins in the

The Sunwheel as an ancient Nordic symbol used in traditional folk rituals and as a symbol of 'Folkish' National Socialist celebrations in Germany in the 1930's.

Here a group of young girls carry the Sunwheels made from plaited, glazed bread.

THE BLACK SUN

A symbol of pre-Christian Europe, a heathen fertility symbol that represents the power of the Sun. The use of the 'Schwarze-Sonne' was revived by the SS and other pre-1945 National Socialist movements. In recent years the use of the Black Sun emblem has been revived both in Germany and other parts of Western Europe as a symbol of the renaissance of Aryan ideals and the rebirth of pan-European National Socialism.

the Vikings or the ancient Greeks and Romans. It is the history and mythological connections behind these symbols that gives them their power, and it is through using these symbols that we seek to invoke their ancient strengths and power. We identify with these symbols because they offer a connection to a mystical, Aryan past where our ancestors lived a cleaner, purer life directly in touch with the Blood and Soil of their ancestral lands, untarnished by contact with the pollution and materialism of the modern industrialised world. These 'folkish' emblems represent a racial link with our past which the non-Aryan immigrants cannot identify, these symbols hold no meanings for them, whereas for a White man or woman they are potent representations of ancient values and beliefs. The British Movement insignia the Sunwheel is an ancient Aryan symbol used by all the ancient tribes which came together to become the British. The Sunwheel appears in the art of the Celts, it appears on Anglo-Saxon artefacts and in Viking carvings, but is older than all these cultures, featuring across Europe in cave paintings and rock carvings. The Sunwheel is there shining out of the mists of time, representing the power of the Sun itself. The Sunwheel is composed of the four arms of the four seasons, trapped within the eternal circle of life, ever repeating itself, year after year and ruled by the Sun. The Sunwheel is one of the oldest symbols of Blood and Soil and is linked to many similar representations of the Sun, the Moon and the Circle of Life. The early European Christians took this ancient symbol and merged it with the crucifix to become the Celtic Cross, another symbol of power.

A PRAYER FOR ENGLAND AND THE ENGLISH PEOPLE

I call upon the Old Gods and Goddesses of our English People: Look now upon the sorry state of our poor, endangered country and help us!

Look now upon the sad, benighted plight of our people, disinherited, despised and dispossessed. Stir up, O Gods, amongst our folk such a spirit of manliness and pride in our self, that we, as a people, may once more demand our rights and our inheritance, untrammelled and unsullied, and strive to regain what is rightfully ours. And may we hope that England shall once more become the good, true English land that Hengist and our noble ancestors strove to make it.

FOOT & MOUTH - BACK AGAIN!

More Rural Mayhem From Defra.

Is this outbreak a 'home-goal' by a Government lab? Or should I say a 'home-goal' by an American owned lab, paid for by British tax-payers? This calamity is yet another cock-up by the so-called Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra) which replaced the disastrous Ministry of Agriculture Food and Farming (MAFF) which totally mis-handled the last outbreak of Foot & Mouth disease. Such was the catastrophic nature of MAFF's Foot & Mouth operations and total loss of confidence in MAFF's ability to deal with British Farming and the rural community that in classic Stalinist fashion the Blair Government re-named MAFF as Defra and launched a re-brand of the New Labour ministry. The reality is that Defra is dominated by career Civil Servants who know next to nothing about the reality of farming and agriculture, never mind life in the British countryside. Last year it was revealed that Defra had made a total disaster of the Rural Payments Agency and the new scheme of payments to British farmers were not happening and a significant number of farmers were in financial distress as a result. Johnston McNeill, the chief executive of the Rural Payments Agency was removed from his post as a result, but in true New Labour fashion was still drawing his £114,000 six months later and had been paid a £21,000 bonus in 2005, the worst year of the payments fiasco!

The Angry Countryman.

BLOOD & SOIL SAVE BRITISH FARMING

For at least the last 40 years successive British Governments, whether Tory or Labour, have effectively destroyed British farming, agricultural workers livelihoods and the lives of those born and bred in rural communities.

In particular they have been the victims of the European Union's Common Agricultural Policy and the never ending tide of regulations and directives flowing out from the Stalinist style bureaucracy in Brussels. They have also suffered the consequences of mis-handled livestock emergencies, the BSE scandal, foot and mouth disease, swine fevers, and 'avian flu'. Meanwhile British farming is gripped by the financial arm-lock of the supermarket chains, who control the bulk market prices of farm produce, and are undercut by cheap imported food.

How can National Socialists help?

As far as possible we should purchase locally produced food. Buy British where possible. If British agriculture continues to be decimated, we will be at the mercy and whims of foreign suppliers and our food markets be held to ransom.

We must learn to reject the supermarket chains, which are mainly owned by alien financial interests. When and where we can, we should shop at farm shops, farmers markets or local shops.

When a British Movement Government achieves power, we will leave the European Union. Then British agriculture can escape the grip of Brussels directed Common Agricultural Policy. Britain will also be able to abandon the Common Fisheries Policy, which has destroyed the British fishing industry and done immense damage to our coastal communities and fishing ports, especially in Scotland, North-East England and the South-West.

We Must And Will Have Our Countryside Back !

THINK ABOUT IT WHEN YOU EAT IMPORTED FOODS

China is striving to become a major exporter of food to the rest of the world. China currently grows half the world's vegetables. There are now more than 200 food processing plants in China, supplied by over 20 million farms.

But... Seven of the world's ten most polluted cities are in China. Chinese rivers are the most polluted in the world, last year one Chinese river alone was found to contain 93 different carcinogens (cancer caused compounds) because Chinese factories are dumping untreated industrial waste straight into the river systems.

I am encouraged about the news regarding the creation of the BM newspaper 'The Emblem' and the proposed series of new pamphlets. We must encourage all true racial Nationalists to join with us under the Sunwheel banner and help to build up our organisation and propaganda machine.

RADICAL OPINIONS

From Biblical History to the Intruders in Britain.

The term 'Inferiority Complex' fittingly applies to the intruders (immigrants). Why? Look to their own ancestral culture, as foretold in the Book of Daniel, Nebuchadnezzar, the King of Babylon. Babylonia was situated at the north west of the Persian Gulf, in the heart of the Arab countries of the Middle East. The god of Moses (their Allah) told the Arab peoples, long long, before Jesus the Christ, long before their Prophet Muhammad, that 'Iron does not mix with miry clay'. (meaning racially mixed marriages - as is rife today, God was right then as God is right today).

Non-Aryans attempting to hide their inferiority, take offence at slights, of words things etc, all of which does not concern them one jot. It is they who are the infidel intruders. They are the Miry Clay which cannot mix with the Aryan Iron; as God indicates in the Book of Daniel 2.

The foreign intruders prove themselves totally wrong by their very words and actions, all of which can be aptly summed up in the latin phrase "Argumentum ad absurdum", meaning "argument to prove the absurdity of any trivial thing which they feel offends them". Little do they realise that we find, and have found, with our own eyes and superior understanding that countless things they have are more than laughable. So much so, that they are beyond triviality of word or action, contempt is the best cure. We Aryans, The Master Race.

The areas of Tigris and Euphrates, Land of Chaldea, and the ancient cities of Uz and Ur, Moses was familiar with them.

References from the old Sanskrit language, mentions the name of "Arya", later developed as Aryan or Arian. Originally these were the native descendants of very ancient European languages, for example the Nordic family dating from prehistoric Europe. These people had no connection whatever to the present idea that people were supposed to all have come from Africa as the black lovers want us to believe, they are total fools to be non-believers in God. God created the different races to live in their own lands of their ancestral birth. Man must not change God's intended plan, the races must remain separate. Changes brings God's Wrath, for example, global warming, floods, volcanoes etc. These are the beginnings of the unimagined devastation to come. Yes, in your lifetime!

The words of Adolf Hitler referring to race quote "Foretold that today's races becoming submerged in a racial mixture, losing one's cultural creativeness, and growing mentally and physically more like the aborigines. Following a condition of fossilisation and sinking into oblivion".

This aptly sums up our present physical and mental condition, made worse by the cunning plan of government from the never ending poison from wireless, TV and media brainwashing. No wonder our children cannot write, spell, or add two and two!

To quote from Adolf Hitler's Mein Kampf, "The adulteration of the blood and racial deterioration conditioned thereby are the only causes that account for the decline of ancient civilisations; for it is never by war that nations are ruined, but by the loss of their powers of resistance, which are exclusively a characteristic of pure racial blood. In this world everything that is not of sound racial stock is like chaff. Every historical event in the world is nothing more nor less than a manifestation of the instinct of racial preservation, whether for weal or woe".

Comparing to today's mish-mash of mixed blood, not only is this against God, but now as a Babylon of races, we of pure Aryan ancestral stock can see through this thick fog of Western democracy, for it is nothing but a thick veil of Marxism. Even Islam hides the face of Allah's beauty under the veil. God is in everything, therefore hide not your light under a bushel for light and beauty is God. For this, no earthly puppet government or EU whim can ever change.

We all need to rekindle our true British Bulldog Spirit and breed to conjure up the blood, stiffen the sinews, for it is now that the state is most corrupt and Laws multiply against us.

The Fuhrer enquires:

Where are the Mantles of Manhood now, ye sons of the soil;

Where are the ships, and men of British steel,

Where are the Men of St George of long, long ago?

Let us gather to become as Ein Volk, ein Reich of Aryans,

To stand aloof as Master Race with One Voice, as

VOX POPULI, VOX DEI. (Voice of the people, is the voice of God).

An article by Abacus.

materialistic outlook - which was able to produce material prosperity, whereas it materialist competitors in the Soviet Union and the West could, short of war, offer their citizens nothing but poverty and misery.

There were two men who understood all of this and who acted accordingly. Today we honour them, not because of any material possessions they had, but rather for what they gave and the sacrifice they made.

They are, respectively, the one who stood closest to the Fuhrer and the one who was to restore his Movement and raise the Banner anew up out of the ashes of defeat: Rudolf Hess and Lincoln Rockwell.

As exemplars, these two heroes and martyrs epitomise the state of being we are talking about. They lacked great material possessions, and ultimately they lost what little they had. But they were true to themselves - and they LIVED! And so they live on today.

We enter this world with nothing but ourselves, our persons. Whether rich or poor, we depart this life with but what we are, leaving behind any material possessions we may have acquired along the way. In other words, we begin and end our mortal journey with only that which is irreducibly essential.

Between start and finish it is only what one does that counts, and thus denotes the personal worth of each individual.

To have or to be? The one is transitory; the other is forever.

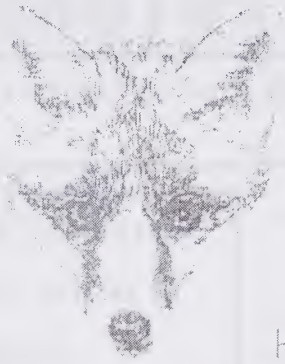

Those are the alternatives posed to those who wish to live. Seek to be; but more than that, seek to become. Become what you are, as the Great Philosopher expressed it. Become what you already are - nothing more, nothing less. What you are, of course, is defined by your ideals, your values, as well as by your vision of a better world. For every National Socialist, there can be but one set of ideals, one common vision of that better world.

In embracing those ideals, those values and that vision you have the opportunity to discover your real self, the self beyond ego. And in being true to that self, you secure for yourself that personal immortality which eludes so many, who have yet to discover that more important than have is simply - BEING.

SORDID WORLD OF WHITE SEX SLAVES

The Hidden Story of the Trafficking of Underage White
British Girls By Asian Paedophiles.

In 2004 Channel 4 TV cancelled the broadcast of a TV documentary investigating the grooming of young White British girls for sex by Asian men. The scandal was centred on the West Yorkshire towns of Keithley and Bradford. The programme was cancelled at the instigation of the Chief Constable of West Yorkshire Police in the interests of public order fearing a backlash from the White community. This story was covered in detail in Broadsword Issue 28. Now, three years later, the story has resurfaced with the jailing of two Asian men, Qaiser Naveed aged 32 and 46 year old Zulfar Hussain, both men coming from somewhere in East Lancashire. Far from this problem being restricted to two towns in West Yorkshire it would appear that the grooming of vulnerable underage White girls for sex by organised groups of adult Asian men is widespread across the North of England and that the authorities are keen to keep the situation low profile for the sake of good community and race relations. The August 2007 jailing of the two Asian perverts has exposed a widespread network of the trafficking of young White girls as sex slaves across the former mill towns of Lancashire and Yorkshire. Evidence at the trial spoke of girls as young as 11 or 12 years of age being groomed by organised groups of Asian men starting with gifts of mobile phones and jewellery and then alcohol and drugs. The usual excuses about confusion between cultures is being trotted out to justify these offences and protect the Asian communities from criticism. One West Yorkshire Labour MP admitted "Asians men were caught between two cultures. They have been brought up in a Western society in families which retain the values of the Asian sub-continent where they are expected to marry someone from their home village. So until that marriage is arranged, they look elsewhere for sex. Asian men cannot go to Asian girls for sex because it would be a terrible breach of the honour of the community and the family to have sex with an Asian girl before marriage. So, they target very young White girls because older White girls know that a relationship with an Asian youth or young man is unlikely to last". This demonstrates the lack of respect that these Asian men have for White British women and girls in contrast with the way they regard their own women and girls.

BMWD Salutes the Memory of Florentine van Tonningen.

Known and respected by the BMWD, one of the 'Vixens' editorial team had the honour of meeting Frw. van Tonningen at an NS meeting in Antwerp. A determined, dignified, elegant woman, Florentine van Tonningen was an example to National Socialist women everywhere.

Broadsword Obituary for Frw. van Tonningen is on page 12.

A spokeswoman for the Leeds based Coalition for the Removal of Pimping (CROP), told a National Newspaper that in the last five years they had been contacted by the parents of more than 60 girls who had been targeted by Asian men. The CROP spokeswoman described how the girls are recruited, plied with alcohol and drugs before being used as sex slaves by groups of Asian men who then pass the girls on to other groups of Asian men in other towns. Girls are trafficked between communities, some are gang raped and one girl was dropped off at the side of the motorway by one gang, only to be picked up by another and gang raped.

The gangs hang around schools and shopping centres and have a talent for picking up girls who are vulnerable, CROP said, "They start off treating them like princesses, telling them they are beautiful, taking them out, buying them jewellery phones and clothes, later alcohol and drugs. Gradually they turn the girls against their school, their friends, their family and making them isolating and dependant on the men grooming them. Then its payback time! The girls are taken to places the Asians call "slag houses" where groups of Asian men know that they can come for sex. The girls begin to feel that they cannot return to their families and become disgusted with themselves, totally isolated, they are easily trafficked from one town to another, from one "slag house" to another. This is not something confined to girls in deprived areas and is not the usual prostitution story, girls are being targeted from all backgrounds and classes across the country.

BUILDING AN N.S. FUTURE

Roots:- the past lies beneath our feet, the soil of our land holds the roots of our Nation and Folk.

In building a National Socialist future in 21st Century Britain we must first look to our Nation's past. We must educate the British people, so that they recognise the worth in their country's past, the sacrifice of their forebears and the value of land on which they walk and make a living.

Spirituality

It is a vital component of British National Socialism.

Without a spiritual connection and attachment to our land we are lost as a people.

Blood and Soil means what it says, a connection both in spirit and thought to our country and its folk.

ing.

In building the foundations of a mass N.S. Movement we must offer the White British people a chance to build a spiritual link with their homeland. The modern world is materialistic and inward looking, disconnected from the land and wild places where the spirit of Britain clings on. There is a need for those folk to recognise where their roots truly lie, why the past matters and why the countryside and coast is important and a source of spiritual regeneration.

Those who live in the concrete and tarmac covered inner cities and housing estates are disconnected from the green fields and earth of our land. The modern industrial and commercial world has effectively cut them off from a direct contact with the blood and soil of their ancestors. The electronic world of TV, the Internet and global mass entertainment has stripped them of the sensory connection with the natural world which our ancestors knew and which shaped their Aryan world view and spirituality.

As National Socialists we seek to re-awaken that relationship with our homeland and the forces of Nature which govern it.

This is why as National Socialists we are keen to see gatherings and festivals in rural settings, offering those of our folk who live in towns and cities a chance to breathe fresh air and the opportunity to connect with the land. Experiencing Nature re-affirms the ties our people have with this land. This is something that the immigrants cannot do, cannot experience because they have no connection with the land and Nature of this country because they do not belong.

To build an N.S. society we need to convince our families, friends and neighbours to turn their backs on the system's TV and mass entertainments and to look towards the 'great outdoors', to seek out the quiet places that their ancestors knew and to regain a spiritual connection with this land of ours. We need to instill in our people the notion that 'This Land Is Ours'

WISE WORDS FROM THE N.S. PAST.

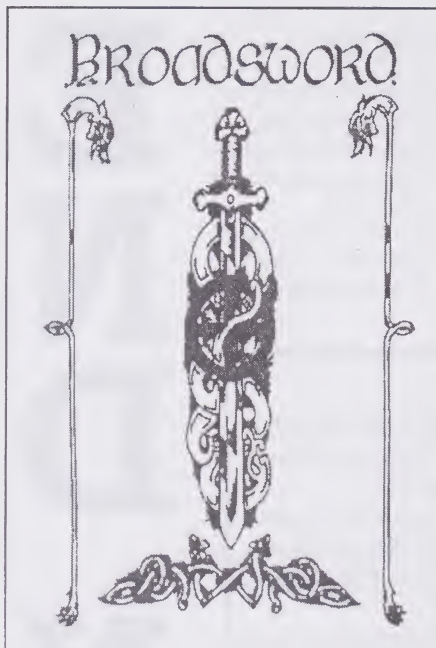

LOYALTY

Many things can be forgiven in this world, so we teach the SS man, but one thing can never be forgiven; disloyalty. He who breaks loyalty, excludes himself from our society. This is so, because loyalty is a function of the heart, not the head. The head may err, and this is sometimes damaging, but it is never beyond repair. The heart, on the other hand, is required to always beat the same rhythm, and when it stops, a man dies in the same way that a people dies, - when it breaks loyalty.

We are speaking here of loyalty of every kind: loyalty to the Fuhrer and therefore to the German and Germanic people, and to their wisdom and their will; loyalty to the blood, hence to our ancestors, uncles, and to our clan or ethnicity; loyalty to our comrades; and finally loyalty to the unchanging laws of good breeding, - of cleanliness and chivalry.

A man sins against loyalty and honour not only then when he passively permits his own or the Schutztaffel's honour to be compromised, but above all then, when he fails to respect the honour of others, when he derides things that others hold sacred, or when he unmanfully and indecently fails to come to the defense of the weak, the helpless, and those not present to defend themselves.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Comrades

Many thanks for Issue 32 of BROADSWORD. Once again it is an excellent publication. Congratulations to all concerned! I particularly appreciated the hard-hitting style throughout and especially the uncompromising policy line regarding the racial issue and race-mixing. I inwardly cheered and applauded when reading the Editorial and the Werwolf column!

I also enjoyed reading the articles entitled "The Not So Subtle Workings of the Secret State" "Our Ancestors" and "Radical Opinions". They were all very interesting and informative.

Further to the item on Page 22 regarding the German Government is pushing to make 'holocaust denial' illegal, I heard recently that Ernst Zundel has been sentenced to five years imprisonment. I am also enclosing a newspaper cutting which indicates other steps being taken in Germany as part of a general assault on National Socialism.

I conclude from all this that we must expect an increasing level of repression from the state authorities throughout Europe. This underlines the importance of the article on Page 20 (Building an N.S. future). It is vital that we make every effort to build up the Movement's infrastructure so that we can seriously begin the fight back against the rising tide of the multi-racial society.

In conclusion in response to the appeal on Page 13, please find enclosed a further donation to help the cause.

Keep up the good work!

Best N.S. Regards 'Hawkwood'

Dear Sir,

I am writing in reply to one of your flyers, which I came across during a day out in Egremont. I would be grateful if you would give me some information about maybe joining your organisation, as I feel very strongly about this subject.

I am glad that there are people out there who are willing to speak out about why Britain is being sold down the river by our politicians, who took it on them to open our borders to the world without asking the British public first, and then classing anybody who spoke out against the invasion of foreigners as racist.

The government said it would only take skilled workers, so you can imagine how I felt after being unemployed for three and a half years. My mate told me he had got me a job at a local factory for which I only had to see his boss, which I did. He showed me around and told me the work would be as a manual labourer and would contact me in a couple of days time for a start. Instead I got a letter saying I had been unsuccessful, which I was upset about at the time until I found out that the job had gone to a Polish immigrant, one of four who had started the following week (all unskilled).

I am angry that in an area of high unemployment and no vacancies, a chance of myself and my family (partner and two children) went to Polish immigrants who barely can speak a word of English.

I mentioned what had happened at the Jobcentre, and they were not interested at all.

Before this happened I had strong feelings about all the immigrants that are invading the British Isles. It seems we are slowly losing our identities and culture because of do-gooders who don't care that what they are doing is only going to cause social and racial tension.

In the area which I live, there is not a big population, but a lot of people are the same as me and think we have let too many immigrants in, and are frustrated that they have no voice to fight back.

Our government which I voted for in 1997 and which I will never vote for again, and the two other main parties, don't want to listen to any other argument than immigration is good for us. Our cities are slowly being taken over by foreign immigrants which are slowly forcing British people to leave. Towns such as Slough are magnets for immigrants which mostly come to live off our benefits system. We were already swarmed by immigrants, but now we have Romanians and Bulgarians packing up their homes to live off our benefits. I read about a family of twenty one, leaving Romania and moving to the UK, all to live on benefits to which they admit (Daily Mail 20/5/07). Everywhere you look you see immigrants taking jobs off local people and people sticking up for them saying we should respect their human rights, and yet most are here for one thing, to sponge or through crime, to take anything they can get.

In our area at Maryport we have a fish processing factory which is in danger of losing 200 jobs. A devastating blow for Maryport, but the local papers (Evening News and Star) are only bothered about what the East Europeans who work there are going to do if they lose their jobs, no mention about the majority of local workers who have families and mortgages in an area which is only going to get worse with the rundown of Sellafield Nuclear Plant.

I have a lot to say about this subject and feel very frustrated at having to keep quiet about it. I have got a PC, but not yet on Internet.

Yours faithfully,

RMC

The Commission for Racial Equality has warned that "Britain's segregated schools are a ticking time-bomb waiting to explode". So the School's Minister Jim Knight has decreed that from September 2007, the Ofsted inspectors will enforce the requirement for schools to "promote community cohesion" and to twin with schools in ethnically mixed inner cities.

Isolde Saalmann, a Social Democrat deputy in the Lower Saxony state legislature has gained approval to file a motion to strip Adolf Hitler of his German citizenship some 62 years after his death in 1945. Deputy Saalmann stated that this move would be a “symbolic step” against the “Nazi leader” and the “horrors he unleashed”.
